About the practice.

A short overview of how Premier Estate Planning works — what we draft, how we charge, and where we sit among your team of advisors.

Premier Estate Planning is a Florida firm dedicated to wills, revocable trusts, probate, and succession planning — considered counsel for the families and business owners of the Gulf Coast.

What we do

We focus on estate planning rather than spreading across every area of law. In practice that means four things we do often and do well:

- Wills & revocable trusts — the foundation of every plan, drafted to Florida statute, with probate avoidance, guardianship for minor children, and homestead protection.
- Probate & trust administration — filings, deadlines, creditor notice, and beneficiary distributions, handled with discretion during a difficult season.
- Business succession — buy-sell agreements, entity restructuring, and dynasty trusts for closely held Florida enterprises.
- Care & incapacity planning — powers of attorney, advance directives, and guardianship work, prepared before they are needed.

How we charge

Every engagement is quoted as a single, flat fee, agreed in writing before any work begins. No hourly meter, no surprise invoices. After a complimentary consultation, you receive a clear scope and a fixed price — so the decision to proceed is an easy one.

An attorney's name belongs on the engagement letter — and on the work.

Where we fit

Estate planning is the ultimate financial-planning exercise, and it works best as a team effort. We coordinate readily with your financial advisor, CPA, and insurance professional, so the plan we draft fits the larger strategy you are already building. The documents are drafted by an attorney, reviewed with you in plain language, and executed in our office.

THE ENGAGEMENT, BRIEFLY

Three meetings, roughly two weeks, one flat fee. A complimentary consultation, a drafting and design stage, and an in-office signing — after which you leave with a bound estate portfolio. See “How Our Engagement Works” for the full walk-through.
