After plan design: what happens next.

You've completed the design meeting. Here is the roadmap for the next ten to fourteen days — drafting, review, signing, and funding.

With the key decisions made, the work shifts to us. The steps below carry your plan from design to a fully executed, funded portfolio.

1 Confirm the design

Review the written summary of your planning meeting. Send us any outstanding items and confirm the design so drafting can begin.

2 Drafting

Once everything is confirmed, we prepare your documents for review — drawn from the decisions you made, in plain language first.

3 Review notification

You'll hear from us when the drafts are ready, with time to read them and raise questions before anything is signed.

4 Signing meeting

Plan on about an hour in our office to review the final language, discuss funding, and execute the documents with witnesses and a notary present.

5 Delivery

You leave with — or shortly receive — a bound estate portfolio, plus digital copies for your records.

6 Funding

We coordinate the deed for Florida real estate and guide you through re-titling accounts and updating beneficiary designations, so the plan is active, not just signed.

7 Completion

Keep your executed originals somewhere safe, share access details with the people who need them, and revisit the plan after any major life change.

QUESTIONS ALONG THE WAY

You won't be left to guess at any stage. If something is unclear between meetings, a short note or call to our office is usually all it takes to resolve it.
